pourquoi la démocratie et les droits de l'homme sont-ils nés en occident plutôt qu'en Inde, en Chine ou dans l'empire ottoman parce que l'occident était chrétien répond l'auteur et que le christianisme n'est pas seulement une religion le Christ enseigne une éthique à portée universelle émancipatrice l'auteur raconte le destin paradoxal du christianisme

The writing of the second part of this book presented a peculiar difficulty on the one hand I had the great advantage of having found the first rough draft of the manuscript La Religion du Chrétien corrected and often recorrected authorship could eventually be established beyond shadow of doubt and in the corrections one could see De Vallone changing his opinions as he wrote on the other the sheer length of the manuscript about 140 000 words plus the number of corrections well over 3 000 many of them lengthy the enormous number of references in the text to the classics to the scriptures and apochrypha to the fathers to philosophers ancient and contemporary or near contemporary to De Vallone and to a considerable number of other contemporary authors all of which would require a footnote not to speak of other footnotes necessary as comments on the text itself made the production of a critical edition a financial impossibility instead I decided for the sake of scholars interested in this type of manuscript to give a full indeed meticulous perhaps too meticulous digest of the manuscript with a running commentary showing the influences working on De Vallone the intellectual atmosphere in which he lived indicating the significance of all the major revisions and corrections in his text and commenting on what one can only describe as his own world theory and on his use of his authorities and of their influence upon him
